BIO DISC SUMMARY

Prepared by Paul Carden and John Divito / www.ACFAR.org

The Bio Disc...
• is a small, circular glass object which is said to have miraculous powers of healing and rejuvenation
• is manufactured in Germany for Amezcua, a Singapore-based “wellness” company, and marketed exclusively through QuestNet via its “independent representatives”

The Bio Disc...
• bases its alleged effectiveness on principles (such as chi or qi energy) that are rooted in thoroughly occultic worldviews
• has no basis in conventional science, but instead corresponds to alternative therapies and forms of New Age/eastern medicine that are speculative at best and frequently fraudulent
• has no objectively proven health benefits, yet its promoters create the expectation that it possesses an extravagant range of healing properties (and can even “remove the effect of gravity on a human being”)
• is not guaranteed in any way by its manufacturer (which instead assigns all potential risk and blame to the purchaser)

It can be argued that, at the very least, the Bio Disc is harmful to:
1. The purchaser, who
   a. wastes a large sum of his money on it
   b. vainly invests his hopes of health and well-being on it
   c. compromises his Christian worldview and witness by accepting its supernatural claims
2. The seller, who
   a. bears ethical responsibility for inducing others to buy an expensive and useless product—and for profiting by this deception

Based on the foregoing, Christians should have nothing to do with the Bio Disc or any similar product.

Helpful Internet Resources:

Examining Alternative Medicine
www.apologeticsindex.org/550-alternative-medicine
—see especially chapters 5 (“Going with the Flow: The World of Invisible Life Energies”) and 6 (“Variations on a Chi Theme”)

Water Pseudoscience and Quackery www.chem1.com/CQ/wonkywater.html
www.chem1.com/CQ/gallery.html
www.chem1.com/CQ/clusqk.html

Scalar Field Theory
www.en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Scalar_field_theory_(pseudoscience)

January 2009